

I do not want the state's Do Not Call List weekend because I don't want someone calling me back after I have cancelled their service. I already have people calling me to make donations for police or fire I really don't need a bunch of other people calling me to buy something or calling me after I have cancelled their service. There is generally a reason why a person cancels a service, like they don't want it any more and we don't need them calling asking us if we would reconsider cancelling their service.
